

Gregory Major Blascovich

87 Hulme Ct. • Stanford, CA 94305
gmblascovich@stanford.edu

Education

Ph.D. Stanford University, Communication 2012 – current
(in progress) William R. and Sara Hart Kimball Stanford Graduate Fellow Stanford, CA

Research Interests: Intergroup relations, political communication, experimental design, political psychology, partisan affect, and virtual-human interaction.

Coursework: Graduate-level coursework in campaign strategy, communication science, research methodology, experimental design, and consumer behavior

M.A. University of California, Santa Barbara (UCSB), Political Science 2010 – 2012
Thesis: Experiments in Political Science: perspective taking, proposals, and how experiments contribute to political research Santa Barbara, CA

B.A. University of Denver, Political Science, Cum Laude Honors 2006 – 2009
Minor in International Relations. Denver, CO

Academic experience

Researcher

Political Communication Laboratory (Stanford-Shanto Iyengar, PhD), Social Psychology Laboratory (UCSB-Dave Hamilton, PhD)

Teaching Assistant

Media and the American Presidency (UCSB, Jeff Greenfield, journalist & political correspondent), Comparative Politics (UCSB), Research Methods (UCSB), Introduction to Psychology (UCSB)

Invited Speaker

“Experimental Methods in Political Psychology” (Westmont College)

Visiting Student

Stanford Institute of Political Psychology
Language and observing political process (University of Zagreb, Croatia; Split, Croatia)
International Development and Security (University of New South Wales, Sydney, Australia)

Technical skills

Experimental design

- Laboratory and online survey experiments (mturk, Qualtrics)

R

- Regression based analysis