

The Vera Moulton Wall Center for Pulmonary Vascular Disease at Stanford Clinical Fellowship Opportunity in Pulmonary Hypertension

Established in 2001, the eBay Clinical Fellowship in Pulmonary Vascular Disease is a post-doctoral fellowship devoted exclusively to clinical training in pulmonary vascular disease. It offers in-depth experience and access to exceptional clinical, research, and teaching activities of the Stanford School of Medicine, Stanford Hospital and Clinics, Lucile Packard Children's Hospital, and Stanford University.

Fellows must be committed to managing a fast-paced, busy clinical service and dedicating additional time to scholarly activities. Applicants are selected following a competitive interview process and must have completed an ACGME accredited fellowship in cardiology, pulmonary, or intensive care medicine (either pediatric or adult). To download an application and read more about the program requirements visit: wallcenter.stanford.edu/education/fellowships.html

