Taube Tennis Center
 Proud Host of the First Ever Combined
 Men's & Women's 2006
 NCAA Championships

Led by the exceptional generosity of Tad and Dianne Taube, over 1,200 people have graciously donated $16 million in the past 16 years to create the beautiful Taube Tennis Center. For a description, refer to:

INSIDE FRONT COVER: Pictorial review of the many faces of this phenomenal community resource.

INSIDE REAR COVER: The History. The Facility Today.

The Final Piece – The final piece of the renovation program begun in 1989 is the addition of raised bleacher seating behind three of the back courts at the Taube Family Tennis Stadium similar to the seating at the Taube South Complex. Dual matches are often decided on these back courts. Completion of this seating will provide spectator viewing for 16 of the 17 lighted courts in the Taube Tennis Center.

(all donations are recognized in University Giving records and are tax-deductible.)

Since Phil Neer (left) won his first title in 1921, Stanford has helped change the face of collegiate tennis. John McEnroe captured the 1978 NCAA singles title while leading Stanford to the team title. McEnroe became one of the most decorated players on the Pro Tour, capturing an amazing 17 singles and doubles Majors titles. Alex O'Brien (top) won the NCAA singles, doubles and team title in 1992, and went on to star on the Davis Cup and U.S. Olympic teams while also capturing a pair of doubles Majors titles. Jared Palmer captured the 1991 NCAA singles title and went on to score Majors titles in doubles and mixed doubles. The team celebrates the 1998 team title (upper right), led by Bob Bryan, who captured the NCAA singles title and teamed with brother Mike to capture the doubles title. The Bryans are currently the top doubles team on the professional tour.

Matt Mitchell (above) won the 1977 NCAA singles title and helped lead Stanford to its first NCAA title in the current six singles/three doubles format. KC Corkery (left) captured the 2004 NCAA doubles title and is a top returnee for Stanford.

Stanford University's tennis program has been the finest in the collegiate ranks for three decades. Coupled with unmatched team records in recent years, individual successes have also flourished under the tutelage of Director of Tennis Dick Gould and his associate John Whitlinger on the men's side and former head coach Frank Brennan, who retired following the 2000 season, and current head coach Lele Forood, who was the associate head coach under Brennan, on the women's side. Scores of former Stanford players abound in the professional ranks.

Bob (left) and Mike Bryan with the 2003 French Open trophy – This former 1998 NCAA Championship doubles tandem (Bob also won the singles title) won the French Open and reached the world's #1 doubles ranking in 2003. Mike won the U.S. Open Mixed Doubles in 2002, and Bob did the same in 2003. Mike won the 2003 French Open Mixed Doubles title and they reached the 2003 U.S. Open Doubles finals. This Davis Cup doubles team resides in Camarillo, CA.

Stanford Tennis History

Stanford University's tennis program has steadily developed into the premier program in the United States. Beginning with Phil Neer's national intercollegiate singles title in 1921, the next two decades saw Stanford amass 10 collegiate individual championships. In addition, Lin Murray, John Doeg and Ted Schroeder each captured the U.S. National Championships. On the women's side, Linda Yeomans and Carol Hanks captured the USTA collegiate doubles crown in 1962 for Stanford's first of 20 individual collegiate titles.

Since 1975, when Stanford's women's team joined an already successful men's program, no other school has claimed more NCAA team titles. Stanford has held a stranglehold on NCAA and national team trophies from 1973 to the present, capturing 17 men's and 14 women's titles. Either of Stanford's tennis teams has won more collegiate titles by itself than all other men's and women's teams combined during that time period.

Men Thrive Under Dick Gould

Under head coach Dick Gould, Stanford's men won NCAA team titles in 1973-74, '77-78, '80-81, '83, '86, '88-90, '92, '95-98 and 2000 to dominate collegiate tennis in that time period. No other collegiate tennis coach has won as many NCAA team titles (17) as Dick Gould (the NCAA Division I men's tennis all-time win leader), and only one collegiate coach has won more titles in a single sport (Al Scates, UCLA Men's Volleyball, 18 titles). A remarkable note is that any player who competed for Stanford during any four-year period from 1969-2003 has at least one NCAA Championship ring to his credit. Since the NCAA initiated its team championship playoff in 1977, Stanford has won 15 of the 28 tournaments held and finished second twice. In 25 national championship appearances, the Cardinal has racked up an unbelievable 88-11 (.889) dual match record.

Stanford has dominated collegiate tennis in recent years, passing USC (16 NCAA team titles) and UCLA (15). The Cardinal's 13 singles championships since 1921 is second on the all-time list, while its 14 doubles titles ranks third.

Men's Tennis (since 1972)

- Seventeen NCAA team titles (ties NCAA Record)
- 50-31 record vs. USC; 46-38 record vs. UCLA
- Four NCAA team runners-up
- Undeclared dual seasons in '78 (24-0), '95 (27-0) and '98 (28-0)
- Ten NCAA singles titles
- Seven NCAA doubles titles
- 50 All-American selections
- 89-11 (.889) dual match record in NCAA team championship tourney
- Four NCAA Triple Winners (team, singles & doubles in same year) – Alex Mayer ('73), John Whitlinger ('74), Alex O'Brien ('92), Bob Bryan ('98)
- Dual match record of 709-111 (.865)

To go along with a record 13 NCAA titles, Stanford alums have had great success on the women's professional tour to add to collegiate achievements. From left: Anne Kremer is the highest ranked Stanford player on the current tour. Laura Granville (lower left) captured two NCAA singles titles and has gone on to a top-40 WTA ranking. Patty Fendick-McCain won two NCAA titles in the 1980s and vaulted to a #4 doubles and #19 singles rankings while winning the Australian Open doubles title. She currently coaches at the University of Washington. Kathy Jordan (middle) enjoyed considerable success after winning a pair of AIAW doubles titles and a singles title. She later won seven Majors doubles titles and earned a WTA singles ranking as high as #4. Alycia Moulton (top right) won the first NCAA singles title after winning a pair of AIAW doubles titles. In 2004, Amber Liu (right) became one of four Stanford athletes to capture a pair of NCAA singles titles.

Women Land 13 of 23 NCAA Team Titles

The accomplishments of the Cardinal women are equally impressive. Only three years after the first athletic scholarship was awarded to a female player, the Stanford squad won its first national title – the AIAW Championship in 1978. In 1982, the Stanford women claimed their first ever NCAA team title. In total, the Cardinal women have captured 14 national championships: 1978, '82, '84, six straight from 1986-91, '97, '99, back-to-back crowns in 2001 and 2002, and 2004. Highlights of the women's performance over the last 22 years include its unprecedented streaks of six consecutive NCAA team titles (1986-91) and three straight NCAA Singles Champions on two different occasions (1985-87; 1989-91). Frank Brennan, who was inducted into the Stanford Athletic Hall of Fame in 2001, won 10 of those NCAA Championships in his 21 years at the helm (1980-2000). Lele Forood has won three NCAA Team Championships in four years since taking over in 2001.

Since the 1982 season, the Stanford's women's team has had a remarkable dual match record of 591-39 (.938), including a perfect 29-0 season in 2004. Since 1980, the Cardinal has produced 13 team championships, as well as 12 singles champions, four doubles champions, five singles runners-up, and four doubles runners-up.

In 2001 alone, Stanford was home to the singles champion (Laura Granville), singles runner-up (Lauren Kalvaria) and doubles runner-up (Granville/Gabriela Lastra). In 2002, Stanford produced the national doubles champions (Kalvaria/Lastra) and two singles semifinalists (Erin Burdette, Lastra). Amber Liu claimed back-to-back NCAA singles championships in 2003 and 2004.

Stanford women have captured a remarkable 11 of the past 20 NCAA Singles Championships. The prestigious Honda Broderick Award has been given to seven Stanford players: Linda Gates (1985), Patty Fendick-McCain ('87), Sandra Birch ('89, '91), Debbie Graham ('90), Lilia Osterloh ('97), Marissa Irvin (2000) and Laura Granville ('01).

Women's Tennis (since 1975)

- 14 National Team Titles, Six straight from 1986-91
- Five NCAA runners-up
- 14 National Singles Titles – three straight from '89-91
- 10 National Doubles Titles – four straight from '76-79
- Dual match record of 680-63 (.915)
- 65 consecutive regular season dual wins – March 5, 1999-Feb. 8, 2002
- 44 different All-Americans, including seven in 1988; six in '84, and five each in '89, '90, '91, '97 and 2000.
- Eight undefeated dual seasons: '75 (11-0), '76 (9-0), '82 (20-0), '84 (26-0), '89 (29-0), '90 (29-0), '01 (30-0), and 2004 (29-0)

Since NCAA Championships were introduced in 1982, Stanford has won 13 of 23 possible titles. In an incredible run since 1997, Stanford has won five team titles, five singles titles and one doubles title during the past eight seasons.

Men's Tennis Professionals

Since 1993, eight different Stanford men have represented the United States in Davis Cup play (David Wheaton 1993, Jim Grabb 1993, Patrick McEnroe 1993, '94, '96, Jared Palmer 1994-95, 2000-02, Jonathan Stark 1994, '95, '97, Alex O'Brien 1997, 1999-2000, and Bob and Mike Bryan 2003-05) and eight have participated in the Summer Olympics dating back to 1984 (Derrick Rostagno 1984, Tim Mayotte 1988, Jeff Tarango 2000, Palmer 2000, O'Brien 2000, Bob Bryan 2004, Mike Bryan 2004, and Patrick McEnroe as coach in 2004).

Grand Slam Doubles Finalists include:

- David Wheaton – Runner up: U.S. Open (1990), Australian Open (1991)
- Scott Davis – Champion: Australian Open (1991)
- Patrick McEnroe – Champion: French Open (1989); Runner-up: Australian Open (1991)
- John McEnroe – Champion: Wimbledon (1992); Nine other Grand Slam Doubles titles and World No. 1 rankings in 1979, '80, '81, '82, '83, '84 and '89
- Jim Grabb – Champion: U.S. Open (1992); Runner up: Wimbledon and French Open (1989); World No. 1 ranking (1989, '92, '93)
- Jonathan Stark – Champion: French Open (1994), Wimbledon mixed (1995); Runner up: Australian Open (1994); World No. 1 ranking (1994)
- Jared Palmer – Champion: Australian Open (1995), Australian Open mixed (2000), U.S. Open mixed (2000), Wimbledon (2001); Runner up: U.S. Open (2001)
- Alex O'Brien – Champion Wimbledon (2000), U.S. Open (1999); Runner up: U.S. Open (1995), Australian Open (1996, '97)
- Bob Bryan – Champion: French Open (2003); U.S. Open Mixed (2003), U.S. Open Mixed (2004); Runner up: U.S. Open (2003), Australian Open (2004)
- Mike Bryan – Champion: U.S. Open mixed (2002), French Open (2003); French Open mixed (2003). Runner up: U.S. Open (2003), Australian Open (2004).

Lilia Osterloh, who captured the NCAA singles title as a freshman in 1997, has gone on to achieve a #41 singles ranking on the WTA tour.

The following Cardinal players achieved or matched personal high world rankings in 2004: In singles (six) – Jeff Salzenstein (100), K.J. Hippensteel (150), Ryan Haviland (516), Scott Lipsky (638), David Martin (590) and Sam Warburg (638); In doubles (six) – Bob Bryan (1), Mike Bryan (1), K.J. Hippensteel (210), Ryan Haviland (307), Scott Lipsky (215), David Martin (260), and Sam Warburg (788).

Some interesting statistics achieved in the Open Era (beginning 1968) are as follows:

- In 1982, eight former Stanford players reached at least the round of 32 at Wimbledon. Also, in 1982 10 former Stanford players were ranked among the world's top 100, four of them in the top 10.
- Six former Stanford players have reached at least the semifinals of Wimbledon, four of whom were in at least the quarterfinals in 1983.
- Nine former Stanford players have reached the world's top 15 in singles and 13 have reached the world's top 10 in doubles, including Alex O'Brien (No. 1 in 2000) and Jared Palmer (No. 1 in 2000, '02), and Bob and Mike Bryan ('03-'04).

Women's Tennis Professionals

On the women's tour, former Stanford star and two-time NCAA singles champ Patty Fendick-McCain was voted by the Women's Tennis Association (WTA) as its 1988 Rookie of the Year. Capping an impressive debut on the pro tour, Fendick-McCain was a member of both the U.S. Federation Cup and the U.S. Wightman Cup teams. In 1994, she teamed with 1990 NCAA doubles champion Meredith McGrath to win the Australian Open Doubles title. McGrath, who had defeated Martina Navratilova at Eastbourne, England, won the coveted WTA Comeback Player of the Year Award in 1994.

WTA honors also came for Marianne Werdel-Witmeyer ('86 All-American), who received the WTA Service Award and was elected Vice President of the WTA in 1994 and president in 1995. Debbie Graham, who was the 1990 NCAA Singles Champion, was honored as 1992 WTA Rookie of the Year.

Many former Stanford players have been ranked within the top 100 on the tour. Cardinal standouts in the pros include Kathy Jordan (who was ranked as high as No. 5), Kate Gompert (18), Alycia Moulton (18), Anne Kremer (18), Patty Fendick-McCain (19), Marianne Werdel (21), Elise Burgin (22), Meredith McGrath (26), Lele Forood (30), Debbie Graham (35), Barbara Jordan (37), Lilia Osterloh (41), Tami Whitlinger (41), Laura Granville (46), Marissa Irvin (51) and Linda Gates (58).

Other honors abound on the WTA pro tour. Alycia Moulton was on the U.S. Wightman Cup team in 1985, and Burgin was a member of the U.S. Federation Cup team. In 1986, Burgin was captain of the Wightman Cup team. The year 1985 also marked the appearance of 10 former and current Stanford women in the main draw of the U.S. Open – a feat unmatched by any other collegiate tennis team. In 1986, seven former Stanford women appeared in the main draw of the U.S. Open.

STANFORD

School of Champions

Just Do It in 2005!

Few coaches in the history of Division I athletics have obtained the level of success that Stanford men's tennis Head Coach Dick Gould has achieved. After 38 years and 17 national titles, the legendary coach retired at the end of the 2003-04 season. However, Gould is very much involved with Stanford tennis as he assumed the position of Director of Tennis for the university, and was instrumental in securing the bid to host the first-ever combined men's and women's NCAA tennis championships at Stanford in 2006. Longtime associate head coach, John Whitlinger, who was an NCAA Singles and Doubles Champion on The Farm, took over the head coaching duties following the 2004 season.

"Stanford has provided me with an incredible 38-year journey," said Gould. "I will be forever indebted to the wonderful young men with whom I had the great pleasure to work, and who in turn have taught me so much and made my life so rich. As for the future, I am looking forward to the continuing privilege of serving this fantastic university and Stanford Athletics as the Director of Tennis. There is much to be done as we strive to maintain and improve our tradition of excellence, and I am thankful the Department of Athletics has afforded me the opportunity to be an integral part of this."

Throughout the years, Gould, the John L. Hinds Director of Tennis, has proven himself to be one of the top collegiate tennis coaches in the nation. Gould was honored by Wilson Sporting Goods and the ITA as "Coach of the Decade" in men's collegiate tennis during the 1980s and again for the 1990's. The award is fitting as Gould's Stanford teams captured six NCAA team titles in both the 80's and 90's. Gould was also named the 2000 NCAA Coach of the Year.

Under the tutelage of Gould, some of the world's finest tennis players have developed their games at Stanford. A list of former players reads somewhat like a Who's Who in Professional Tennis. In total, 15 different Stanford players have reached the finals, and 12 others have reached the semifinals of the NCAA singles tournament while playing for Gould. Under Gould's watch, 12 players have captured the national championship, while another 10 players have finished as national doubles runner ups in the NCAA doubles tournament. Fifty of his players have earned All-America honors. The Cardinal men's team has finished in the NCAA top five in 29 out of the last 35 years. In NCAA team competition, Stanford has won 88 of 99 (.889) matches during the 26 years in which it was invited to participate.

On three occasions, Stanford has captured back-to-back NCAA titles-1973-74, 1977-78 and 1980-81. The Cardinal won three consecutive team titles from 1988-90 and four in a row from 1995-98. Three Gould-coached squads have recorded unblemished records in 1998 (28-0), 1995 (27-0) and 1978 (24-0), and five times his teams have lost only one match.

The 1998 team is regarded by many as one of the best all-time teams, posting a 28-0 record while losing just three points the entire year. For his efforts leading the team, Gould earned ITA/Wilson Intercollegiate Coach of the Year honors and was named the U.S. Olympic Committee Coach of the Year in 1998.

Gould is renowned not only for his coaching and recruiting skill, but also as a pioneer in the collegiate tennis world. The 67-year-old coach initiated major college indoor matches in 1974, opening the doors of Stanford's spacious Maples Pavilion in matches that attracted 7,500 fans to view collegiate competition in the comfort of an indoor arena.

Gould also spearheaded campaigns to raise $17 million for the building of the Taube Tennis Center. The Taube Family Tennis Stadium provides permanent loge-type theater seating for 2,500 spectators, locker room facilities for home and visiting teams, an indoor practice range as well as a championship indoor court. The prestigious Orsak Family Heritage Room houses the 31 national championship men's and women's team trophies earned in the past 32 years. It also features a mural of all individual national collegiate champions. The extensive seminar space has been funded by the Koret Foundation and the Rick and Donna Fluegal Family Foundation, and furnished largely by the Bernard Osher Foundation. The Gwen and Victor Riches family has been instrumental in the development of additional tutorial and office space to better serve the renowned East Palo Alto Tennis and Tutoring Program, an inner city out-reach program, based at Taube. The Taube Family Tennis Stadium was the site of the NCAA Women's Tennis Championships in 1991, 1992, 1997 and 2002. Additionally, Gould has been instrumental in bringing world-class tennis events to the Taube Family Tennis Stadium including the WTA's Bank of the West Classic, the 1999 Fed Cup Final, the Siebel Champions and the World Team Tennis National Collegiate Championship.

Gould was also the driving force behind the acquisition of one of the nation's first electronic scoreboards in 1983, which has now been replaced by the Phil and Penny Knight Scoreboard. This unique scoreboard has the capability to control and display scores from 11 different court locations at the same time to all match spectators and convey these results as they happen on the Stanford athletic web site - www.gostanford.com - to tennis fans and friends of Stanford tennis world-wide. The Russ and Jackie Thompson video center is another unique feature of the facility.

"Courtside With the Stars" was another brainchild of Gould's. John McEnroe, Roscoe Tanner, Sandy Mayer, Nick Saviano, Pat Dupre, Tim Mayotte, Peter Rennert, Gene Mayer, John Whitlinger and Scott Davis are among the tennis alums who have returned to aid Gould in his fundraising effort through the "Courtside With the Stars" exhibition matches.

Gould is also an accomplished author, and the most recent edition (sixth) of his instructional book, Tennis Anyone?, remains one of the most popular guides ever. He has also produced an instructional series for television. He is featured in the instructional video "Better Tennis For Life."

Gould has been recognized for his service both to tennis and to the community. He was awarded the prestigious Kenneth M. Cuthbertson Award for "Exceptional service to Stanford University" in 2002. He was presented with the Volvo "Service to Tennis" Award in 1989 as well as the "Linda Meier Service Award", presented by the Peninsula Center for the Blind. He was presented with the Educational Merit Award in 1983 by the United States Tennis Association. In 1966, the Lifetime Sports Foundation honored Gould as one of 25 master clinicians for teaching tennis seminars.

Gould did his undergraduate and graduate work at Stanford where he was a Dean's list scholar and a Master's degree recipient. He was awarded the Buck Club's leadership award for tennis in 1960.

After graduating from Stanford, Gould taught for two years at Mountain View High School, serving as tennis coach and assistant football coach. In 1962, he moved to Foothill College to become head tennis coach, where his teams won state championships in 1964 and 1965.

From 1960 through 1966, he was the tennis professional at the Fremont Hills Country Club in Los Altos Hills. He co-founded the Mid-Peninsula Tennis Patrons Association in 1962 and served as its first president. He has served on the Advisory Committee of the USA Tennis High Performance Coaches' Program and the East Palo Alto Tennis and Tutoring Program. He is a board member of Northern California's Youth Tennis Advantage and U.S. Sports Camps, and has contributed to Sports Education Network. He serves on the National Advisory Board of the Positive Coaching Alliance.

Gould was named an honorary member of the U.S. Professional Tennis Association in 1981. He joined Frank Brennan as co-recipient of the first USPTA NorCal Lifetime Achievement Award in 2004. In 1967 he served as president of the NorCal Professional Tennis Association. He was inducted into the Ventura County Athletic Hall of Fame in 1990, the Northern California Tennis Hall of Fame in 1992 and the Stanford Athletic Hall of Fame in 1994.

Gould hosted four U.S. Junior Davis training camps at Stanford University in the late 60's and early 70's. He directed the USTA National Junior training camp in 1985, 1986 and 1987. He currently directs Nike Tennis Camps at Stanford. He has conducted tennis clinics in Europe, Mexico, the Caribbean, China, Japan and Central America.

Gould and his wife, Anne, the former Stanford University women's tennis coach from 1976-79 who led the Cardinal to its first women's national team championship in 1978, and is currently a senior lecturer in physical education at Stanford, reside in Menlo Park. Their daughter, Kim, led the Harvard volleyball team as captain in 2004 and has also performed as a member of the highly acclaimed Crimson Dance Team. Gould has three other daughters: Susan, a tennis playing graduate of Princeton University; Sheryl, a graduate of Stanford; and Karin, a graduate of the University of Southern California who earned All-America honors as co-captain of the Women of Troy's swim team. Gould's son, Rick, was co-captain of the Stanford swim team, an All-American, and former American record holder in the 200 medley relay.

John Whitlinger

Men's Tennis
Head Coach

1974 NCAA Singles & Doubles Champion

1999 Collegiate Tennis
Hall of Fame Inductee

John Whitlinger, a two-time All-American at Stanford, who has established himself as one of the nation's top collegiate coaches, begins his first season as Head Coach of the Cardinal after serving 18 seasons as the associate to Dick Gould. Whitlinger took over the Head Coaching duties at the culmination of the 2004 season from Gould, who assumed the position of Director of Tennis for the university.

Under the tutelage of the pair over the past 18 years, the Cardinal posted a 396-58 (.872) record and claimed nine NCAA team titles.

"I'm very excited about taking over the program as head coach," said Whitlinger. "I hope to maintain the excellence that Coach Gould started 38 years ago. I have learned so much from him as a player, and over the last 18 years as coach. I am forever grateful for all he has done for me. He has been an incredible friend and mentor. We have formed a great team over the last 18 years, and I'm thrilled that he will be still be a part of the program as the Director of Tennis."

One of the nation's top teaching professionals, Whitlinger is co-director of the famous Stanford Tennis School. He was awarded the inaugural National ITA Assistant Coach of the Year in 1997 and was inducted into the ITA Collegiate Hall of Fame in 1999 and the Fox River Valley (Wisconsin) Tennis Hall of Fame in 1998.

"John has been instrumental in helping Stanford continue its national success," Stanford head coach Dick Gould said. "We are blessed to have a coach of John's caliber associated with Stanford. He is without question one of the top coaches in the world."

As an athlete, Whitlinger helped lead Stanford to its first two NCAA Championships in men's tennis in 1973 and 1974. In 1974, he won the NCAA Singles Championship, teamed with Jim Delaney to win the NCAA Doubles Championship, and helped lead Stanford to the NCA Team Championship. Whitlinger, a member of Stanford's Athletic Hall of Fame, earned All-America honors in 1974 and 1975.

After his collegiate career, Whitlinger was an international touring professional for six years and was ranked among the top 50 in the world in singles and top 40 in doubles. He also played for the Indiana Loves of the World Team Tennis League. He now teams up with 21-year old son J.J., and the duo is ranked No. 3 in the nation in the National Father-Son Rankings. In 2002 and 2003, they won the prestigious Agawam Hunt Club Tournament in Providence, Rhode Island, and were quarterfinalists at the National Grass Court Championships in Brookline, Massachusetts and at the National Clay Court in Cincinnati, Ohio.

From 1981 to 1986, Whitlinger was a head professional at the Racquet Club at Harper's Point in Cincinnati, Ohio. He ranked in the top five in men's singles play in the United States Professional Teaching Association (USPTA) – the national association of teaching professionals.

The Whitlinger family was named the National Tennis Family of the Year in 1986. Whitlinger's father, Warren, who celebrated his 90th birthday this year, has coached numerous junior tennis players in Wisconsin and currently works with players on the mental aspects of the game. His sister Wendy is the Director of Tennis at Fox Cities Raquet Club in Appleton, Wisconsin. Whitlinger's sister-in-law, Ruth, manages the club and his brother Kip has coached tennis at the high school level in Menasha, Wisconsin. His nieces, Teri and Tami, both attended Stanford and currently reside in Tampa. Teri captured the 1990 NCAA Doubles Championship, and Tami was ranked among the world's top-40 players as a professional. Both spent time as teaching professionals following their playing careers.

Whitlinger, a native of Neenah, Wisconsin, came to Stanford in 1972 as one of the top junior players in the country. During his high school career, Whitlinger won an amazing 109 consecutive matches en route to four straight state singles championships (1969-72). He holds 11 National Junior Titles, including the 1971 Interscholastic Championship and the prestigious International Orange Bowl Championship in 1969 and 1970. He was also a member of the U.S. Junior Davis Cup teams from 1970-74.

Whitlinger and his wife of 24 years, Jan, have two children: 21-year old son, J.J., who is a senior politics major and a member of the tennis team at nearby Saint Mary's College, and 19-year old daughter, Claire, who is a sophomore at George Washington University in Washington, DC and is majoring in sociology.

Volunteer Assistant Coach Dave Higaki, Head Coach John Whitlinger and Assistant Coach David Hodge

David Hodge begins his first season on the Stanford men's tennis coaching staff after serving the past two seasons as the top assistant and recruiting coordinator at Colorado University. During his time in Boulder, Hodge coached the 2004 Region VII Freshman of the Year and helped the Buffaloes to a No. 4 regional ranking, while also serving as the director of the Colorado University Tennis Camp. Hodge, who brings a wealth of collegiate and professional experience to The Farm, will serve as the top assistant on head coach John Whitlinger's staff for the 2004-05 season.

"Dave is an accomplished player with an incredible love for the game," stated head coach John Whitlinger. "I feel that he is one of the best assistant coaches in the country, and his technical knowledge and strength of character will bring energy and enthusiasm to the program. I'm looking forward to coaching with him on The Farm."

As a professional, Hodge competed on the ITF and ATP circuits for two years. He played in the main draw at the 2002 Australian Open Grand Slam tournament, and was a finalist for the 2001 Australian Unity Destiny Medal, awarded annually to the most outstanding player on the Australian Satellite, Future, and Challenger circuits. Hodge won doubles titles in five different international tournaments, and put together a streak of 21 straight wins in doubles competition.

On the open circuit, Hodge claimed the Colorado State Open singles title in 2003, and reached the finals in the doubles tournament. He was the recipient of the 2003 Jim Landin Award, presented to the USTA Intermountain Section/Colorado District Male Player of the Year. Hodge also earned Denver City Open titles in both singles and doubles competition in 2003. He teamed with Colorado head coach Sam Winterbotham to win the doubles championship at the Colorado State Open in July of 2004.

Prior to his tenure as a professional, Hodge enjoyed an All-American career at Baylor University from 1997-2001. He was a four-time All-Big XII selection and earned conference titles as a singles and doubles competitor, while leading the Bears to the Big XII Conference title in 2000. Hodge helped bring Baylor tennis to national prominence, as the Bears advanced to the final eight of the 1999 NCAA Tournament and the Sweet-16 of the 2000 NCAA Tournament. In individual competition, he received a No. 2 ITA doubles ranking and was ranked as high as No. 54 as a singles competitor. Hodge also garnered Academic All-Big XII honors four times during his career in Waco, and graduated with a bachelor's degree in Health Science Studies with an emphasis on Physical Therapy.

A native of Maryborough, Queensland, Hodge represented Australia four times as a junior competitor and spent time as the nation's No. 2 ranked Under-18 tennis player. He earned a Queensland State High School Championship in 1996, and represented Queensland eight times during his junior career, twice serving as the team captain.

Men's Tennis
Assistant Coach

Stanford has captured an amazing 17 NCAA Men's Tennis titles.

Dave Higaki, who also serves as the Executive Director of the renowned East Palo Alto Tennis and Tutoring Program, is in his third season as a volunteer assistant coach for the Stanford men's tennis program.

Higaki brings a wealth of coaching experience to The Farm, as he has coached on the pro tour and has coached several nationally ranked junior players. Higaki was a Master Instructor at the Nike Tennis Camp and an Equipment Editor for Junior Tennis Magazine. He also served as a Zonal coach for the NorCal USTA.

In addition, Higaki received the 1997 NorCal USTA Fred Earle Award for his contributions to the growth of tennis. He has also served as a statistician for HBO Sports at Wimbledon, in addition to working with Fox Sports and the Sports Channel on televised tennis broadcasts.

Under Higaki's direction, the East Palo Alto Tennis and Tutoring Program has been ranked among the top three inner city tennis programs in the United States by Tennis Week Magazine. He currently is on the teaching staff at the Alpine Hills Swim and Tennis Club.

Dave and his wife, Jennifer, reside in Palo Alto.

As head coach John Whitlinger begins his first season at the helm of the Stanford men's tennis program, he realizes that a tall order awaits in filling the shoes of legendary Cardinal coach Dick Gould. Gould, whose name has become synonymous with Stanford tennis, led the Stanford tennis team to 17 national championships during his 38 seasons on The Farm, and will remain affiliated with the program as the Director of Tennis. Whitlinger, a former NCAA singles champion who played on Gould's first two national championship teams in 1973 and 1974, has served as the program's associate coach for 18 seasons and has been a part of 11 national championships for the Stanford tennis program.

"Nobody can replace coach Gould," said Whitlinger. "But I plan on doing my best to help keep the legacy that he created here at Stanford alive. Having played and coached for him, I realize what it takes to win and I know what it takes to be a champion. I have big shoes to fill, so I want to keep this thing going at full speed. Dick left his position as head coach with the program better off than it was when he started, and I hope to do the same."

Coach Whitlinger and the Cardinal will be looking to challenge for a national championship in 2005, with a team that features a mix of veteran experience and new talent. Returning are the reigning NCAA champion doubles tandem of junior KC Corkery and senior Sam Warburg, along with a number of players that gained valuable experience last spring. Included in the returning cast are senior Phil Sheng, junior Jon Wong, and a talented sophomore class that includes James Wan, Eric McKean, and Nico Martinez.

Stanford lost just two seniors from a team that advanced to the quarterfinals of the NCAA Tournament last season, but Carter Morris and Joe Kao will be difficult to replace. "Both players will be sorely missed," stated Whitlinger. "Joe's presence on the team is irreplaceable and Carter was one of our most talented players in both singles and doubles. Both players worked extremely hard and were great people to have on the squad."

Stepping in to fill the void is a talented group of players that will strengthen a Cardinal lineup that was dominant at times last season. Warburg and Wan combined to post a 45-6 record in dual matches during the 2004 campaign, and Corkery posted an impressive 13-7 mark at the No. 2 singles position. Sheng emerged as a key contributor in the middle of the lineup, while McKean and Martinez earned valuable experience as freshmen.

"I'm very excited about this season," stated Whitlinger. "It will be a challenging year, but our guys are up to the task. Our returning players have worked extremely hard in the fall and our newcomers will continue to improve as they get more and more experience at the collegiate level."

The group of newcomers feature highly touted freshman Phil Kao, freshman Lee Chang, and sophomore David Ryan. The unit, combined with a solid core of seven returning players gives the Cardinal a solid lineup entering the 2005 campaign.

Once again, Stanford has compiled an extremely challenging schedule that will test the Cardinal throughout the spring. Stanford opens the season with its first dual match against rival California in Berkeley on January 29, before returning home for five straight matches at Taube Tennis Stadium. The Cardinal will take on tough foes in San Diego, Fresno State, and Saint Mary's in non-conference matches, and host Arizona and Arizona State before heading to the National Team Indoor Championships in Chicago at the end of February. The February 8 match against Saint Mary's holds particular significance for coach Whitlinger as his son, J.J., is a senior on the Gaels team.

In addition to a Pac-10 schedule that includes matches against Cal, UCLA, USC, Oregon, and Washington, the second half of the Cardinal season will feature matches against some top non-conference competition including William & Mary, Santa Clara, and Pepperdine.

Stanford will also take on the NCAA Champions of the past two years in Illinois and Baylor.

"What pops out at me from our schedule is how difficult our spring break is going to be," said coach Whitlinger. "We'll be on the road against Baylor, Washington, and Oregon and then play Illinois at home on March 29. It's a challenging schedule and our guys are up to that challenge. On the whole, it's one of the best schedules that we've ever had from top to bottom."

Senior Sam Warburg was named as the Intercollegiate Tennis Association's "Player to Watch" entering the 2004 season and he lived up to the distinction with an outstanding performance last year. In dual matches, Warburg posted a 22-3 record, including an 18-3 mark at the No. 1 singles position. The Sacramento, CA native became the ninth different Stanford player to be tabbed as the Pac-10 Player of the Year, and was named First Team All-Pac-10. Warburg entered the 2004 Fall season as the No. 2 ranked singles player in the nation by the ITA, and the senior advanced to the final of the Icy Hot/ITA All-American Championships and the semifinals of the National Indoor Championships in November.

Men's Tennis 2005 Outlook

"Sam is just a tremendous competitor that has gotten better every year that he's been here," said Whitlinger. "His strength is his ability to compete, and the fire that he demonstrates on the court. He had an outstanding season last year, and we expect more of the same from Sam this season."

Junior KC Corkery solidified his place among the top players in Division I collegiate tennis last season. Following a freshman season in which he garnered several awards including the Pac-10 Freshman of the Year honor, Corkery posted a 14-11 dual match record in 2004 while playing at both the No. 1 and No. 2 singles spots and was ranked No. 40 in the final ITA rankings. Along with Warburg, the Manhattan Beach, CA native provides the Cardinal with one of the top 1-2 punches in the nation in singles play. Corkery earned a No. 15 ITA preseason ranking and won the consolation final at the National Indoor Championships in November.

"KC Corkery is as good as anybody on the court," said coach Whitlinger. "At the end of last season, he played very well and I see him building on that success. He is a very smart player and we're expecting great things from KC in 2005."

Phil Sheng will be counted on to bolster the middle of the Cardinal lineup during his senior season. Sheng played at five different singles positions last year, finding a home at the No. 3 spot late in the season and posting an 8-4 record in dual matches at that position. The Thousand Oaks, CA native had an overall dual match record of 11-12, and knocked off three ranked opponents over the course of the 2004 campaign.

"Phil Sheng is ready to become a major player in his senior year," said coach Whitlinger. "He's got a solid forehand with a big serve. He's worked very hard in the off season to improve his fitness and we're looking for him to have a breakout season."

Last season's Pac-10 Co-Freshman of the Year, sophomore James Wan will continue to move up in the lineup and looks to build on his impressive rookie campaign. Wan led all Stanford players with 23 victories in dual matches last season, the sixth highest single-season wins total in program history. The Woodbury, NY native began last season at the No. 6 singles position and went undefeated at the No. 6, No. 5, and No. 4 spots before finally settling at the No. 3 position, where he went 6-3. Wan earned a No. 70 ITA preseason ranking, and is expected to provide the Cardinal with a strong presence in the middle of the lineup once again in 2005.

"James is not the biggest guy on the team," said coach Whitlinger. "But, his brain and his quickness is what sets him apart. He's a real fighter and a tough competitor on the court. His strengths are his ground strokes and the way he moves and thinks. We expect James to continue to improve and emerge as a team leader this season."

Also competing for a spot in the Cardinal lineup will be junior Jon Wong, and sophomores Eric McKean and Nico Martinez. Wong put together an impressive performance at the Bronco Classic in October, winning four straight singles matches and claiming the C-Flight title.

"I've known Jon for a long time, and he is one of the hardest workers on the team," said coach Whitlinger. "What he did at the Bronco Classic in the Fall was great and he'll continue to improve with more experience at the collegiate level."

Sophomore Eric McKean earned valuable experience as a freshman in both singles and doubles play, earning a win at the No. 6 singles position against Hawaii last season and teaming up with Chris Rasmussen to post a 5-2 record in doubles play. Rounding out the returning group is sophomore Nico Martinez who did not see action last season, but looks to contribute in 2005.

"The bottom of the lineup is unsettled and we'll have to see how it shakes out," said coach Whitlinger. "Eric McKean is a guy that is getting better every day and has improved greatly since his freshman season. Nico Martinez has an outstanding attitude and is a very intense competitor. They both will continue to improve with the more experience they get."

Stanford is further bolstered by an exceptional group of newcomers that includes Phil Kao, Lee Chang, and David Ryan.

Kao is a highly touted freshman that will be expected to make an immediate impact during his first season on The Farm. The Cupertino, CA native has been the top rated junior player in northern California for the last two years and advanced to the semifinals of the 16 and under national championships in Kalamazoo, Michigan in 2002. Kao got to display some of his talent during this past Fall, as he registered his first collegiate win at the Bronco Classic in October and advanced to the third round of the Wilson/ITA Regional Championships.

"Phil Kao is a freshman with a lot of talent," said coach Whitlinger. "He has a great attitude on the court and he features a big forehand and a solid serve. Once he gets up to speed in collegiate tennis, he will be very competitive and should have an outstanding season."

Freshman Lee Chang and sophomore David Ryan also join the Stanford squad for their first season this spring. Chang brings a large amount of youth experience with him to The Farm. The Alpharetta, GA native was a quarterfinalist at the Georgia State Championships and participated in the 16 and under National Championships in Kalamazoo, Michigan. David Ryan is the only left-hander on the Stanford team and is expected to develop into a major contributor as he gains increased experience at the collegiate level.

"Lee Chang has an exceptional forehand and a solid serve," said coach Whitlinger. "He has shown a desire to learn the game and has worked extremely hard. David Ryan adds a new dimension to our squad in that he is left-handed. He strikes the ball well and may contribute early on as a doubles competitor. Both of these players have tremendous work ethics and have displayed a winning attitude."

Championships, and the coaching staff expects Phil Kao to figure into the doubles equation at some point this season.

"We're trying all sorts of combinations right now," stated Whitlinger. "It's going to be somewhat of a jigsaw puzzle and we'll see how it all shakes out. Doubles will be a work in progress, but we're confident that we'll have a solid unit once these guys get some experience. The doubles point is very important because if you win it, you only have to take three singles matches as opposed to four to win the dual match."

Doubles

With the returning NCAA Champion doubles tandem of Sam Warburg and KC Corkery leading the way, the Cardinal will once again be one of the strongest teams in the nation in doubles competition. The duo earned a No. 2 ITA preseason doubles ranking, and advanced to the final of the National Indoor Championships in November.

"We have the luxury of having the returning NCAA champions on our team, and they are as good as anybody in collegiate tennis," beamed coach Whitlinger. "When they go out on the court, they are going to have a bull's eye on their backs because they are the reigning champions, but they are both tough competitors and are up to the challenge. It is nice to know that they are capable of beating anyone in the country in a doubles match."

While Corkery and Warburg forged an outstanding partnership in the NCAA Doubles Championship, each player is capable of partnering up with others to form strong doubles tandems. Warburg teamed with Carter Morris during last season's NCAA Tournament and won three straight matches, while Corkery paired up with Phil Sheng at the No. 2 doubles spot.

The remainder of the doubles group will be determined as preparations for the season progress. Last season, James Pade and James Wan formed a formidable tandem and posted a 12-7 record in dual matches, while the duo of Eric McKean and Chris Rasmussen showed some promise with a 5-2 overall mark. McKean paired up with Jon Wong in the Fall and posted three impressive victories, advancing to the quarterfinals at the ITA Regional Championships in October. James Wan and Phil Sheng teamed up at the Icy Hot/ITA All-American Championships and at the ITA Regional Tim Mayotte – '82. In 1981, Tim Mayotte won the NCAA singles championship (over teammate, Jim Gurfein, in the finals) and received the Rafael Osuna Award. In professional tennis, he reached a world singles ranking of #7 (1988). He was a semifinalist at both Wimbledon (1982) and the Australian Open (1983), and he reached the quarterfinals of the U.S. Open in 1989. He was the Olympic Silver Medalist (1988) and represented the United States in Davis Cup in 1986 and 1987. He is a member of both the Stanford Athletic Hall of Fame and the Intercollegiate Hall of Fame. After graduating from Stanford, he earned his degree at Union Seminary in New York. Tim lives in New York City.

Jon A. Douglas – '58. Douglas was inducted into the Intercollegiate Hall of Fame in 1996. At Stanford, he was Stanford's first All American tennis player, a 1958 NCAA singles and doubles finalist, a third team All American quarterback and elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He was the founder of the Jon Douglas Realty Company in Southern California.

K.J. Hippensteel – '02. A back condition cut short the last month of competition of K.J.'s senior year. Yet he still ended the year as the #2 ranked collegian, and earned All-American honors for the fourth year. He was also named to the Verizon Academic All-American team, and earned a coveted NCAA post graduate scholarship. KJ won the NCAA doubles title with Ryan Wolters in 1999 and reached the singles semi-finals in 2000. He is off to a fast start on the professional circuit. K.J. resides in Roanoke, VA.

Stanford Tennis Endowments

John L. Hinds

Endowed Directorship of Tennis

The estate of the late John L. Hinds – a strong supporter of Stanford Tennis – provides not only a fully funded endowed tennis scholarship, but a complete endowment for the position of Director of Tennis, currently held by Dick Gould. Hinds, an avid tennis player and coach, taught high school math for 27 years. His estate also established an endowed scholarship and the John L. Hinds Professorship in the History of Science.

Peter and Helen Bing

Endowed Directorship of Women’s Tennis

The position of head women’s tennis coach at Stanford has been endowed through a gift from Dr. and Mrs. Peter Bing of Los Angeles (pictured at right). Their gift establishes the Peter and Helen Bing Directorship of Women’s Tennis, currently held by Lele Forood.

The Bings have been supporters of Stanford University for decades and have also been long-time supporters of Cardinal athletics. In addition to endowing the Director of Women’s Tennis position, Peter and Helen Bing established endowed funds for the Director of Women’s Basketball and four scholarships for female student-athletes.

Irving and Pat Deal

Tennis Center Maintenance Endowment

A significant endowment has been started to help ensure the quality and timely maintenance and repair of the beautiful Taube Family Tennis Stadium by former Stanford University Trustee and Athletic Board Member Irv Deal (pictured at right) and his wife Pat, of Dallas, Texas. This is in addition to the Irving C. Deal scholarship for men’s tennis.

Stanford Tennis is especially indebted to its benefactors (donors of $50,000 or more). Included in this list are Stanford Tennis Stadium Renovation Donors, Scholarship Donors, and people who have listed Stanford Tennis in their estate planning. These uncommon supporters of Stanford Tennis are recognized by individual plaques at the main entrance to the Taube Family Tennis Stadium, made possible by a gift from Susan Ure, in loving memory of her husband Gary. Special thanks for making our program and excellence possible!

Chairs in Stanford Tennis' "Rows of Champions" commemorate a player's participation in the Stanford tennis program. These chairs are located in the central featured section of the Stanford Tennis Stadium. Proceeds from the subscription of these $5,000 chairs help to defray capital building costs of the Stanford tennis program. Each chair is "personalized" with up to a five line inscription. These "Rows of Champions" provide almost a museum of Stanford Tennis history. Over 140 program participants honored thus far and are listed by the decade of their graduating class (bold indicates chairs established in the past year).
