STANFORD EdCAREERS

edcareers.stanford.edu

In this report, the Stanford EdCareers Office presents placement information for Masters and PhD graduates nine months following graduation. The Class of 2011 included 228 students who graduated from the following MA and PhD programs. 88% of these graduates provided post-graduation placement information.<sup>1</sup> The data presented in this report are based on information provided by these respondents.

Program Profile of 2011 Graduates

The Stanford Graduate School of Education Program abbreviations:

- Stanford Teacher Education Program (STEP MA)
- Policy, Organization and Leadership Studies (POLS MA)
- International Comparative Education (ICE MA)
- International Educational Administrative and Policy Analysis (IEAPA MA)
- Learning, Design and Technology (LDT MA)
- Curriculum and Teacher Education (CTE MA)

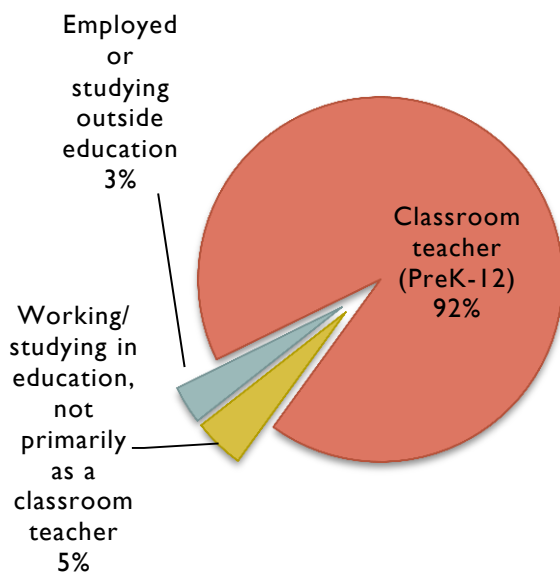

<sup>1</sup> Post-graduate placement information was reported by 95% of STEP MA graduates, 85% of MA graduates, and 75% of PhD graduates.

Stanford Teacher Education Program MA (STEP MA)

STEP, a nationally-renowned 12-month program, prepares future teachers at the elementary and secondary levels. An intensive, fulltime program, STEP leads to a Master of Arts in Education and California teaching credential. STEP Elementary graduates earn a California preliminary multiple subject teaching credential. STEP Secondary offers California preliminary single subject teaching credentials in the teaching of English, Mathematics, History/Social-Science, Science, and World Languages.
