Over twenty years in intelligence production management, open source imagery publication, imagery analysis, remote sensing applications, and intelligence operations coordination. Expert in the development and customization of analytical methodologies to the expanding landscape of the imagery intelligence community; including adapting strategic National Technical Means systems of the U.S. Government to the highly-tactical needs of the Special Operations military community, and intuitively tailoring open-source satellite imagery analysis for wide-scale public consumption. Skilled in the management of international analytical resource networks (journalists, subject-matter experts, data, technical solutions, etc.).

Senior Data Analyst, Google (February 2015 - Present):

Currently leads Pilot and Experimental projects for Google's recently-acquired Skybox Imaging Team. Develops and implements processes to understand economic, social, and environmental patterns of life on earth using satellite imagery.

Analyst, Counterproliferation & Operations Intelligence Support (CPOIS) / Lawrence Livermore National Lab (September 2013 - October 2014):

Supported the U.S. national mission of counterproliferation of weapons of mass destruction for the Counterproliferation Analysis and Planning Center (CAPS), Z Program, of the Lawrence Livermore National Lab. Coordinated and directly provided network analysis, imagery analysis, and open-source analysis internally and from agencies within the Departments of Energy and Defense.

Senior Imagery Analyst, Jane's Information Group (January 2008 - September 2013):

Established and managed all imagery intelligence content for the 112-year old defense publishing company Jane's. Co-founder and managing editor for Jane's first imagery intelligence publication Jane's Monthly Imagery Watch. Generated and published commercial satellite imagery content either singlehandedly or through coordination with subject-matter experts, journalists, and technical specialists. Co-established and managed all partnerships with affiliated commercial satellite imagery companies. Analytical emphases include the advent of North Korea's space launch capability; humanitarian crises in North Africa, Haiti, South Asia, and North Korea; the open-source discovery of underground nuclear enrichment facilities in Iran; and the crowd estimate for the 2009 U.S. presidential inauguration. Developed and presented briefings to U.S. Departments of Defense and State, European and Israeli Ministries of Defense, NASA, the U.N., the I.A.E.A., Stanford University, and the Naval Postgraduate School. Publication and project collaboration with media agencies include the Sankei Shimbun, Fuji TV, Yonhap, Radio Free Asia, Wired, ABC News, CNN, Bloomberg, the New York Times, Financial Times, Spiegel, and The Daily Telegraph.

Senior Imagery Analyst and Project Coordinator, BAE Systems (1998 - June 2006):

Senior operations analyst for the Naval Special Warfare Mission Support Center in Coronado, California. Deemed the "field standard" in providing rapid-response intelligence for U.S. Navy SEALs in the Middle Eastern and Pacific theaters during Operations Enduring Freedom and Iraqi Freedom. Developed and fielded new methodologies to produce highly-granular imagery assessments (facility profiling, evacuation analysis, critical nodes of vulnerability) for the Special Warfare community. Provided intelligence and briefings to commanders of American and multinational forces, the U.S. Chief Naval Officer, and the U.S. Secretary of Defense. Generated intelligence in collaboration with U.S. Special Operations Command, the National Ground Intelligence Center, the Office of Naval Intelligence, the Defense Intelligence Agency, the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency, the Department of Energy, and the Joint Warfare Analysis Center (2003-2006).

Task Order Manager for a multi-million dollar mapping contract for the U.S. National Imagery and Mapping Agency. Managed 3 sub-contracting companies and 30-member, countrywide team that created geospatial intelligence databases; each receiving a “First Time 100% Acceptance” designation from the sponsor. Standardized the production quality to ISO parameters during tenure (2000-2003).

Production manager for crisis-related geospatial intelligence in the immediate aftermath of September 11th, 2001 during the run-up to Operation Enduring Freedom in Afghanistan (2001-2002).

Civilian intelligence coordinator, imagery analyst, quality assurance, and targeteer at the U.S. Joint Analysis Center in Molesworth, England during the 1999 Kosovo airstrikes and subsequent ground campaign. Provided targeting and operations intelligence to the U.S. Intelligence Commander of Europe and the Supreme Allied Commanding General of NATO. Briefings and intelligence coordination included U.S. and NATO Commanders and the U.S. Senate and House subcommittees on Intelligence Funding (1999).

Imagery Analyst, U.S. Army (1991-1997):

Awarded for service in the Balkans as a non-commissioned officer during Operation Joint Endeavor as an imagery analyst and production quality control for the U2 reconnaissance mission, while simultaneously serving with the joint multinational “Predator Red-Cell” UAV imagery analysis team.

Noncommissioned Officer-in-Charge (NCOIC) of Intelligence Dissemination for 1st Special Forces Group, Fort Lewis.
