

Arizona State Head Coach Bobby Hurley

On The Last Eight Seconds of the Game

“We knew that they were just going to try and get it in and push the basketball and try and attack the basket. We didn't do a great job of keeping [Rosco] Allen in front, but that was a regular occurrence throughout the course of the game. He made big plays driving the basketball for them tonight. It was a great drive.”

On Who You Initially Thought Had The Ball With Eight Seconds Left

“We felt -- the bench felt -- that it was off them. I didn't see the replay. It was difficult to really see that. They had plenty of opportunity to look at it, so we have to live with it.”

On Battling Back

“We made some plays. Willie Atwood was pretty good on offense in the second half, and he gave us a good job of giving us a chance to win, but overall, you just have a bad taste in your mouth for how we played through large stretches early in the game and again had to climb uphill.”

On Possessions Where You Had Good Looks But Couldn't Get Them To Drop

“Well, yeah, they have to go in the basket or you're not really going to beat anyone. For the most part, when Stanford did have their open looks, they made them. That's been something we've been hurting ourselves with, with timely shot-making.”
