

JOHNNY DAWKINS

6th
season

The Anne & Tony Joseph Director of Men's Basketball

Duke (1986)

In his first five seasons as a head coach at any level, Johnny Dawkins has continued to make an impact on one of college basketball's most accomplished programs as Stanford's Anne and Tony Joseph Director of Men's Basketball.

Dawkins' contributions since arriving on The Farm have come in the form of both team and individual success, most notably guiding the Cardinal to the 2012 Postseason NIT championship.

Meanwhile, one year after leading Stanford to a 20-win season for the 20th time in school history, Dawkins oversaw Landry Fields' progression from key reserve to all-league performer and eventual NBA Draft pick.

Dawkins has also made significant strides off the court, with several highly-touted recruiting classes yielding some of the nation's elite players. More impressively, that same young talent is being developed quickly. In 2012, Chasson Randle became the fourth player to earn All-Freshman Team status among conference players during Dawkins' tenure following a six-year period in which only two Cardinal rookies were honored.

A high standard in the classroom has been established as well during Dawkins' tenure. In 2012-13, Stanford was represented with a conference-best seven players named to the Pac-12 All-Academic team. For the fourth season in a row, Stanford had more honorees than any conference school. Stanford's six selections among the first and second teams last year were the most in program history.

Stanford finished 19-15 overall last year, advancing to the second round of the NIT. In Pac-12 action, the Cardinal finished 9-9, sweeping the season series against California for the first time since 2008 and notching a 76-52 upset of No. 10/12 Oregon at Maples Pavilion. Meanwhile, Dwight Powell and Josh Huestis made significant strides. Named the Pac-12 Most Improved Player, Powell was the only conference player ranked among the league's top-10 in both scoring (14.9 ppg) and rebounding (8.4 rpg). Huestis developed into one of the league's premier defensive performers, averaging 10.5 points and 9.0 rebounds while compiling 71 blocks.

Stanford produced a 26-11 record in 2011-12 en route to capturing the Postseason NIT title, the third championship in school history (1942 NCAA, 1991 Postseason NIT). The Cardinal chalked up its best win total since a 28-8 campaign in 2007-08. Despite placing seventh in regular-season conference play, Stanford wrapped up the year as the Pac-12's winningest program and tallied a league-best four victories against the RPI's top-50. Randle produced one of the best rookie seasons in school history, leading the club with 13.8 points per game while Josh Owens led the team in rebounding at 5.8 per game.

The Cardinal closed out the 2010-11 season at 15-16. Fielding a team without a senior for the first time in school history, Dawkins put his rookies in a position to excel. In addition to making more starts (47) than any other Pac-10 team, Stanford's freshmen logged the highest percentage of minutes played (41.7) and accounted for the highest percentage of scoring (40.3). Additionally, Stanford was represented with four all-league picks overall, the most since four members of the Cardinal's 2008 Sweet 16 squad were recognized.

Stanford finished 14-18 overall during the 2009-10 campaign in Dawkins' second season at the helm. Despite multiple injuries, lack of depth and a projected last-place conference finish in the preseason media poll, the Cardinal reached the Pac-10 Tournament semifinals. An impressive feat considering Stanford's roster featured only seven true scholarship players, two returning starters and six walk-ons.

Under Dawkins' guidance, Fields produced one of the most memorable seasons in school history, earning All-Pac-10 First Team honors after leading the conference in scoring, minutes played, 20-point games and double-doubles while finishing second in rebounding. Fields was chosen in the second round of the 2010 NBA Draft, as the 39th overall pick by the New York Knicks. Fields became the 31st NBA/ABA Draft choice in program history and first since Brook Lopez and Robin Lopez were taken 10th and 15th overall, respectively, in 2008.

During his rookie season in 2008-09, Dawkins directed Stanford to a 20-14 record and reached the CBI semifinals, extending the program's lengthy streaks of consecutive winning seasons (16) and postseason appearances (16). In addition to surpassing Robert Burnett as the winningest first-year head coach in school history, Dawkins ranked third in victories among the 21 first-year head coaches in Division I with no prior college head coaching experience. The Cardinal joined national champion North Carolina and Final Four participant Pittsburgh as the only schools in Division I with an undefeated non-conference record. Perhaps more impressively, Dawkins' 2008-09 squad accomplished all of the above while overcoming the losses of NBA First Round Draft picks Brook Lopez and Robin Lopez.

In May 2012, Dawkins was elected to serve on the board of directors for the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC). He also currently serves on the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Ethics Coalition, an independent committee of current and former basketball coaches. The group is charged with promoting ethical conduct through leadership, education and mentoring opportunities while identifying key issues challenging the coaching community.

Dawkins, 50, became Stanford's 17th head coach on

Apr. 28, 2009, after completing 11 years as a member of the Duke coaching staff. For the previous nine seasons (2000-08), Dawkins served as Duke's associate head coach and began his coaching career as an assistant in 1998-99.

During the summer of 2008, Dawkins completed a three-year commitment as Player Personnel Director for the gold-medal winning USA Basketball National Team at the Olympics in Beijing. With the help of Dawkins and the rest of the coaching staff, Team USA claimed its first gold medal since 2000 with a 118-107 victory over Spain. The Americans were dominant throughout the entire competition, posting an 8-0 mark and winning by an average of 27.9 points per game.

Two years earlier in his first competition with USA Basketball, Dawkins helped lead the Americans to a bronze medal finish at the 2006 FIBA World Championship in Japan.

During Dawkins' 11 years as a coach at Duke, the Blue Devils won a national championship in 2001, six ACC regular season championships, seven ACC Tournament titles, and posted a 330-60 record. In four consecutive seasons from 1999-2002, Duke finished the regular season ranked No. 1 in both national polls, marking the first time that has happened in college basketball history. Duke reached the No. 1 national ranking in eight of the 11 seasons that Dawkins coached for the Blue Devils.

Dawkins supervised player development efforts during his tenure. Nine Blue Devils were tabbed NBA lottery picks and one of his pupils, Elton Brand, was named Co-NBA Rookie of the Year. He played an integral role in the development of NBA first round selections, Shelden Williams, who was selected fifth overall, and J.J. Redick, who was selected 11th overall, in 2006. In addition, Duke had four National Players of the Year and 13 All-Americans during Dawkins' tenure.

One of the most decorated players in Duke history, Dawkins finished his career in 1986 as the school's all-time leading scorer and held that honor until 2006 when Redick surpassed his mark of 2,556 points. Prior to the 2002-03 campaign, Dawkins was named as one of the 50 greatest players in ACC history. The Sporting News named Dawkins the 78th greatest player in college basketball history in its Legends of College Basketball book released in 2002.

After suffering through an 11-17 rookie season when he was named a Freshman All-American, Dawkins led Duke to an 84-21 record over his last three seasons.

A native of Washington, D.C., Dawkins was a part of three NCAA Tournament squads. During his senior year as team captain, the Blue Devils won 37 contests and notched a 21-game winning streak. That squad went on to win the ACC regular season championship, the ACC Tournament title and advance to the NCAA Final Four where Duke lost to Louisville in the national championship game.

Dawkins is Duke's career record-holder in field goals (1026) and field goals attempted (2019) while also owning the school's best single-season mark for field goals (331) during the 1986 campaign. He scored in double figures in a school-record 129 career games, all but four of the contests he played in at Duke. Dawkins led the Blue Devils in scoring all four years of his career, recording the fourth-highest season point total in school history with 809 in 1986.

An alternate on the 1984 USA Olympic basketball team, Dawkins was a two-time first team All-ACC performer in 1985 and 1986 as well as the school's first consensus two-time, first team All-American. During his senior year, he was tabbed ACC Tournament MVP while also becoming the first Naismith Player of the Year recipient in school history.

A 1986 first-round draft selection (10th pick overall) by San Antonio, Dawkins saw action in nine NBA seasons with the Spurs, 76ers and Pistons.

Upon his retirement from the NBA, he was inducted into the Duke Sports Hall of Fame in September 1996. His jersey number 24 was retired by the school.

Dawkins spent the 1996-97 academic year as an administrative intern in the Duke athletic department. He also served as the radio color analyst for all Duke games on the Capitol Sports Network.

Dawkins is a 1986 graduate of Duke with a degree in political science. He and his wife, Tracy, have four children: Blair, Sean, Jillian and Aubrey.

Tim O'Toole enters his first season as an assistant coach with the Stanford men's basketball program.

With 20 years of Division I coaching experience, O'Toole has established a reputation as a strong in-game tactician who has coached alongside two of the winningest coaches in college basketball history in Mike Krzyzewski and Jim Boeheim.

"I'm very excited to have Tim join our staff and look forward to working with him," said Dawkins. "Tim brings a wealth of experience to our program, having served as a head coach and an assistant coach for several successful programs. He possesses an incredible passion for the game, and has the ability to instantly connect with the student-athletes he coaches. Tim's presence will greatly benefit everyone associated with our program."

O'Toole had previously served as the Director of Operations at Syracuse last season, joining the program midway through its Final Four run during his second stint as a member of the Orange coaching staff. O'Toole had also served as an assistant coach on Boeheim's staff from 1991-95, assisting with scouting and recruiting while leading the Orange to three NCAA Tournament appearances.

"I am thrilled to have the opportunity to join Johnny's staff and work for such a tremendous institution," said O'Toole. "I have been blessed in my career to have the fortune of working at elite academic institutions while coaching under Hall of Fame mentors. I have known Johnny for 20 years, respect him greatly and believe in him whole-heartedly. Johnny has always been committed to excellence and Stanford is an incredible institution that represents excellence. I am grateful to be a part of the program and equally excited about the direction we are headed."

Prior to returning to Syracuse, O'Toole worked as a college basketball analyst for ESPN and SNY-TV while serving as the color analyst for St. John's basketball radio broadcasts. O'Toole was also active in financial planning, serving as the Managing Director of Look Capital, an Investment Management Company, and President of Allied Effort, a motivational consulting company in New York.

O'Toole, 49, also possesses head coaching experience, spending eight seasons (1998-2006) at the helm of Fairfield, where he led the Stags to three consecutive .500-plus seasons and an NIT berth in 2003. O'Toole was honored as the 2003-04 MAAC Coach of the Year.

Prior to serving as an assistant coach at Seton Hall for one season, O'Toole spent two years at Duke (1995-97), working primarily with the post players as an assistant coach under Mike Krzyzewski.

A native of White Plains, N.Y., O'Toole's coaching career began with stops as an assistant coach at Iona (1990-91) and Army (1989-90) after serving as a graduate assistant at Fordham from 1987-89.

O'Toole earned his B.A. in economics/political science from Fairfield in 1987 and his M.B.A. in finance from Fordham, where he also taught as an Adjunct Professor in various management, leadership and sales courses at the Fordham Graduate School of Business.

Honored as the Fairfield Male Athlete of the Year in 1987, O'Toole was a four-year letterwinner in basketball, leading the Stags to a pair of MAAC championship titles and back-to-back NCAA Tournament appearances. He also competed for the lacrosse team.

O'Toole and his wife, Joanie, have three children: Collin (11), Jameson (9) and Christine (7).

CHARLES PAYNE

Assistant Coach

Florida International (1989)

6th
season

Charles Payne enters his sixth season overall and third as an assistant coach with the Stanford men's basketball program. Payne is primarily responsible for developing the team's wing players.

For his first three seasons on The Farm, Payne served as a member of Stanford's support staff in the role of Director of Student-Athlete Development/External Relations. He was named assistant coach on June 30, 2011.

Payne possesses 14 years of experience overall as a college assistant coach and NBA scout. Payne's experience at the collegiate level also includes six years combined as an assistant coach during stints at California and Florida International.

Payne, 47, spent three seasons as an assistant coach at California from 1993-96, helping guide the Golden Bears to NCAA Tournament appearances in 1994 and 1996. During this time, he coached two Pac-10 Freshman of the Year honorees (Tremaine Fowlkes, Shareef Abdur-Rahim) and three Pac-10 Player of the Year selections (Jason Kidd, Shareef Abdur-Rahim, Ed Gray).

Prior to his appointment at California, Payne served as an assistant coach at Florida International from 1990-93, helping guide the program to the 1993 Trans America Athletic Conference Championship and the school's first 20-win campaign. Payne's 1993 recruiting class was ranked No. 1 in the conference, and eventually guided the program to its first and only NCAA Tournament appearance in 1995.

In his role as Stanford's Director of Student-Athlete Development/External Relations, Payne was directly involved with the marketing of the program, including promotion and community relations efforts. He also oversaw the development and promotion of the Buck Cardinal Club, Sixth Man Club and all special events. For the past three seasons, Payne served as the liaison for the program's weekly radio show, Inside Stanford Sports with Johnny Dawkins. He also coordinated the Cardinal Reading Program and the team's visits to Children's Hospital and Ronald McDonald House.

In addition to coordinating the Career Development Program, Payne was involved with all operational aspects of the men's basketball program.

A native of Washington, D.C., Payne has lived in the Bay Area for the last 18 years. Previously, he served as a Financial Representative and Management Team member with The Northwestern Mutual Financial Network in San Francisco and Walnut Creek from 1997-2008.

Payne served as a West Coast scout for the Charlotte Bobcats from 2003-06 before serving as a West Coast scout for Marty Blake & Associates during the 2006-07 and 2007-08 seasons.

Payne served as a West Coast scout for the Charlotte Bobcats from 2003-06 before serving as a West Coast scout for Marty Blake & Associates during the 2006-07 and 2007-08 seasons.

A 1989 graduate of Florida International, Payne earned a B.S. in hospitality management and a master's degree in physical education (emphasis in sports management) in 1997. A three-time letterwinner in basketball at Florida International, Payne was team captain in his senior season.

Payne and his wife, Leslie, have a daughter, Christina. The family resides in Emeryville.

MIKE SCHRAGE

The James C. Gaither Assistant Coach of Men's Basketball

Indiana (1998)

6th
season

Mike Schrage begins his sixth season with the Cardinal, serving as the program's James C. Gaither Assistant Coach of Men's Basketball.

Schrage is responsible for coaching and scouting, in addition to being heavily involved with all aspects of recruiting.

In June 2012, it was announced that Schrage's assistant coach position would be endowed in honor of former Board of Trustees Chair Jim Gaither. A 1964 graduate of the Stanford Law School, Gaither has been active with the university for more than 50 years.

Head coach Johnny Dawkins first began assembling his staff with the addition of Schrage, who previously spent the last nine seasons as a member of the Duke coaching staff.

During his tenure at Duke, Schrage most recently served as the program's director of basketball operations from 2002-08. In that capacity, Schrage organized video scouting and assisted the coaching staff in day-to-day operations. He also oversaw and assisted with a number of logistical duties, including practice coordination and team travel. Schrage was a member of Duke's 2001 national championship squad and two NCAA Final Four teams.

Schrage, 37, also served as the program's academic and recruiting coordinator from 1999-2002, his first three years at Duke. Schrage served as the director of Mike Krzyzewski's Basketball Camp and the K Academy Fantasy Camp, in addition to helping coordinate the annual fall Coaches' Clinic during the past five seasons.

Schrage was a four-year student manager at Indiana from 1994-98 under Bob Knight and coached and coordinated camps during the summers. In 1996, he worked with the U.S. Olympic Basketball Team as a member of its support staff.

Schrage owns the unique distinction of being the only current coach to have worked for two of the sport's winningest all-time coaches in Krzyzewski and Knight.

Schrage also served as the video coordinator for the USA Basketball Senior National Team staff at the 2006 World Championship games in Japan. He served in that same capacity at the 2008 Tournament of America in Las Vegas.

After graduating from Indiana with a B.S. in kinesiology in 1998, Schrage was an administrative assistant for the Mississippi men's basketball team in 1998-99. In his one year working under head coach Rod Barnes, Schrage was part of the first Mississippi team to win an NCAA Tournament game.

Schrage and his wife, Amanda, have a son, Andrew, and a daughter, Sophia.

JEFF LaMERE

Assistant A.D./Director of Operations

Duke (1994)

6th
season

Jeff LaMere begins his sixth season at Stanford, serving as the program's Assistant Athletic Director/Director of Operations.

LaMere's responsibilities include game scheduling, facilities scheduling, travel, budgets and the summer basketball camp. He is also responsible for the coordination of scouting video, capital projects and assisting the coaches in day-to-day operations.

LaMere previously served as an assistant coach at VCU for four seasons (2003-06), helping the Rams achieve their first back-to-back postseason appearances in 20 years. His duties with the Rams included game preparation, recruiting, working with the team's perimeter players and monitoring academic progress.

Prior to arriving at Stanford, LaMere focused on scouting and conducting basketball camps and clinics internationally, including throughout Europe and in Africa. He spent the summers of 2006 and 2008 scouting the U-18 and U-20 European Championships.

A 1994 graduate of Duke, LaMere spent six years at his alma mater before arriving at VCU. After serving one year as Duke's administrative assistant, LaMere was promoted to Director of Basketball Operations. In this capacity, he coordinated scouting, game breakdowns and video (including game preparation, game analysis, individual player development, and advanced scouting reports). He also served as the director of the annual Coach K Basketball Camp and coordinator of Duke's annual fall coaching clinic.

During his time at Duke, the Blue Devils compiled a record of 188-28, won five regular season ACC titles and four ACC Tournament championships, participated in two Final Fours and captured the national championship in 2001.

Prior to his tenure at Duke, LaMere worked as an assistant coach at Delaware under Mike Brey during the 1995-96 campaign.

LaMere, 41, graduated from Duke in three and a half years with degrees in history and public policy sciences, and spent three years as a student manager with the Blue Devils.

In addition, he received a Master of Science with a Concentration in Sports Leadership from VCU (School of Education) in 2005.

LaMere is a native of El Dorado Hills, Calif. He and his wife, Megan, have a son, Dylan.

Tomoo Yamada begins his 10th season as the athletic trainer for the men's basketball team and 12th overall at Stanford.

Yamada handles all the day-to-day medical needs of the men's basketball program. He also works with the men's and women's golf programs.

Yamada began his career as an athletic trainer for two seasons at Santa Clara, where he worked with the women's soccer program during the 2001 NCAA Championship campaign.

Yamada received a B.S. degree in Athletic Training from Bridgewater State in Massachusetts in 1998. He also earned his Associate of Science degree from Vincennes University in Vincennes, Ind., in 1996. Upon finishing, he continued his education and received his Master of Science degree in Athletic Training and Sports Management from San Jose State in 2000.

Born in Tokyo, Japan, Yamada was previously a professional skier and ski instructor. He is also skilled in the fighting form of Gracie Jui Jitsu and has trained on the Shamrock Fighting Team.

Yamada and his wife, Asako, reside in Cupertino with their daughter, Sophia, and son, Riu. Yamada enjoys traveling, cooking and spending time with family and friends.

Juan Pablo Reggiardo
Sports Performance Coach
Arizona (1998)

3rd
season

Juan Pablo Reggiardo enters his third year as the Sports Performance Coach of the men's basketball program.

After serving the previous three seasons at LSU as the Assistant Strength and Conditioning Coach, Reggiardo has returned for his second stint on The Farm as he worked in the same capacity with the Stanford men's basketball program from 2004-08.

During his tenure at LSU (2008-11), Reggiardo was responsible for the basketball team's physical training needs, which included strength, power and speed development as well as flexibility and mobility training. In addition to overseeing each athlete's individual nutritional needs, Reggiardo incorporated many training strategies from the competitive team and individual training drills to balance training, yoga, massage and other relaxation techniques and recovery modalities.

A native of Tucson, Ariz., Reggiardo served as the Strength and Conditioning Coach at Stanford for the previous four seasons, designing and implementing all aspects of the players' strength and speed development programs throughout the year in addition to overseeing their nutritional needs.

Prior to arriving at Stanford, Reggiardo served as Director of Athletics for the Riekes Center for Human Enhancement, a non-profit program for adolescents in Menlo Park. He was responsible for overseeing the development of all programs within the athletic department, as well as directing its Pinnacle and Synergy programs, which serviced collegiate and professional athletes.

He completed his Residency at UCLA and his Sports Medicine and Shoulder Surgery Fellowship from the University of Pittsburgh. He has served as a team physician for many collegiate teams since 1993, in addition to being the Chief Orthopaedic Consultant to the Women's Professional Tennis Association (WTA) and a consultant for the NBA Players Association and NHL Players Association.

Dr. Safran was elected 2nd VP of ISAKOS (international society of arthroscopy, knee surgery & Orthopaedic sports medicine), the largest international Orthopaedic sports medicine society in the world.

Frederick Alexander

Director of External Relations/
Student Services

Stanford (2005)

3rd
season

Frederick Alexander begins his third season as Stanford's Director of External Relations/Student-Services.

Alexander is directly involved with the marketing of the program, including promotion and community relations efforts while overseeing the development and promotion of the Buck Cardinal Club, Sixth Man Club and all special events.

A member of the men's basketball support staff over the last six seasons, Alexander had served as the Academic/Video Assistant for the previous two years, overseeing the academic progress of the team while assisting the coaching staff in the coordination of all recruiting efforts.

An office intern during his first two seasons, Alexander managed the recruiting and alumni database, assisted with film exchange and offered additional administrative support.

Alexander also assists in the editing of weekly and season highlight videos for the basketball program, as well as various social media initiatives.

A 2005 graduate of Stanford, Alexander is a native of Pasadena. He currently resides in Palo Alto.

Mike Paleos

Video/Recruiting Assistant

Virginia Tech (2010)

2nd
season

Mike Paleos enters his second full season overall with the men's basketball program and first as the team's Video/Recruiting Assistant.

Paleos, who arrived on The Farm in January 2012, will oversee the recruiting database while assisting the coaching staff in the coordination of all recruiting efforts. He is also responsible for handling film exchange and assists the coaching staff with scouting video.

During the 2012-13 campaign, Paleos served as a Coaching Intern. In that capacity, he mainly assisted with video coordination and organizing the recruiting database, while also contributing to film exchange coordination, practice participation and other administrative duties in the office.

Prior to joining the Cardinal, Paleos served as a staff forensic accountant at Ernst & Young LLP from 2010-12. He also completed a summer internship as an economist for the Research, Analysis and Statistics Branch of the Internal Revenue Service.

A 2010 graduate of Virginia Tech, Paleos was heavily involved with the school's club basketball program for nearly three seasons. In his eventual capacity as the team's president, Paleos managed budgets and game scheduling, organized tournaments and road trips and conducted tryouts and player evaluations.

A native of Fairfax, Va., Paleos currently resides in Palo Alto.
