

STANFORD'S BASKETBALL TRADITION

- ✓ 16 NCAA Tournament appearances
- ✓ 11 straight NCAA Tournament appearances from 1995-2005
- ✓ 24 postseason appearances overall
- ✓ 1942 NCAA Champions
- ✓ 1991 NIT Champions
- ✓ 2012 NIT Champions
- ✓ 25 All-Americans
- ✓ 31 NBA/ABA Draft Choices

During Jason Collins' All-American career, Stanford advanced to the Final Four and won three straight Pac-10 titles.

Hank Luisetti revolutionized basketball with the introduction of the one-handed set shot.

- 1 Pac-10 Player of the Year
- 3 National Championships
- 4 Regular Season Pac-10 Titles
- 7 NIT Appearances
- 6 CoSIDA Academic All-Americans
- 8 First Team All-Americans
- 11 First Round NBA Draft Picks
- 11 Second Team All-Americans
- 16 Consecutive Postseason Berths from 1994-2009
- 21 Seasons of 20+ Victories
- 26 Straight Wins To Open 2003-04
- 70 All-Conference Selections
- 81 Conference All-Academic Selections
- 1422 Wins In Program History

In 2003-04, Stanford claimed the Pac-12 Tournament title and spent much of the season ranked No. 1 in the country.

Stanford captured the 2012 NIT Championship, defeating Minnesota 75-51 in the title game and averaging 80.2 points per game while shooting 48.1 percent during the run.

Todd Lichti led the Cardinal to the 1989 NCAA Tournament – representing a new era in Stanford basketball.

Tim Young cuts down the net after winning the 1998 NCAA Midwest Regional.

Brevin Knight was an exciting player who found ways to win and elevated Stanford to one of the best teams in the nation.

STANFORD IN THE NBA

Jason Collins, a first-round draft pick in 2001, advanced to the NBA Finals with New Jersey during his first two years in the league.

Josh Childress was the No. 6 overall pick by the Atlanta Hawks in the 2004 NBA Draft

After producing one of the best seasons in school history, Landry Fields was selected in the second round of the 2010 NBA Draft as the 39th overall pick by the New York Knicks. Fields is now a member of the Toronto Raptors.

Jarron Collins was a second-round NBA Draft selection in 2001.

All-American Mark Madsen, a first-round NBA selection by Los Angeles in 2000, won two NBA titles with the Lakers.

11 NBA FIRST ROUND DRAFT PICKS

7 NBA FIRST ROUND DRAFT PICKS SINCE 2000

9 NBA DRAFT SELECTIONS SINCE 2000

31 NBA/ABA DRAFT CHOICES

4 ACTIVE NBA PLAYERS

Casey Jacobsen was a first-round selection in the 2002 NBA draft.

In the 2008 NBA Draft, Brook Lopez was chosen as the 10th overall pick by the New Jersey Nets while Robin Lopez was tabbed as the 15th overall pick by the Phoenix Suns. Brook is a member of the Brooklyn Nets while Robin plays for the Portland Trail Blazers.

Brevin Knight was a first-round NBA Draft selection in 1997.

ALL-AMERICANS

25 Stanford players have been named All-Americans.

Brook Lopez was named a third team Associated Press All-American in 2008, adding to his lengthy list of honors during the season. An All-Pac-10 first team honoree, Lopez averaged 19.3 points and 8.2 rebounds per game.

Casey Jacobsen, a two-time All-American, scored a Maples Pavilion record 49 points against Arizona State in 2002.

Josh Childress, a first team Associated Press All-American in 2004, earned Pac-10 Player of the Year honors in 2004 while guiding Stanford to a school record 26-game winning streak.

Mark Madsen, a two-time All-American, averaged 10.9 points and 7.9 rebounds during his career.

MAPLES PAVILION

One of the best environments for college basketball can be found at Maples Pavilion. Built in 1969, Maples Pavilion has been host to many of the most memorable collegiate games in the nation over recent years.

Maples Pavilion underwent a $26-million renovation that was completed in 2004-05, ushering in a new era of great basketball that benefited both student-athletes and fans alike. Maples Pavilion serves as home for the men's and women's basketball teams, along with the women's volleyball program. The men's and women's gymnastics squads, in addition to the men's volleyball team, also occasionally host home events in the facility.

The renovation, financed entirely through private donations, has enhanced the college athletic experience for both student-athletes and fans. The facelift included a new covered 29,000-square-foot concourse around the exterior of the seating area, concession and restroom facilities with speaker systems, in addition to a four-sided, state-of-the-art, center-hung scoreboard with video and replay capability.

The concourse is physically separated from the original building. The gap between the original building and the new concourse was designed for two reasons: to preserve the integrity of the architectural design and create an open garden feel that is present throughout buildings on the Stanford campus. The renovation also included the new playing court floor, upgraded locker rooms, student-athlete lounges, a state-of-the-art strength and conditioning room and training room, a media workroom, photography office and Courtside Room reserved for banquets.

The seating configuration features a lower bowl seating area that replaced the old floor and loge sections. The new lower seating level includes padded stadium seats that replaced the wood bleachers in the old floor setup. With the upgraded facilities and the improved seating area at floor level, the home team and fans experience the most intimate playing atmosphere in the Pac-12.

The 7,233-seat structure serves the entire university as a multi-purpose facility. It was originally built at a cost of $3.3 million. It was named after its principal donor, Roscoe Maples, a member of the 1904 Stanford class.

Stanford played its first game in Maples Pavilion on Jan. 3, 1969, losing 95-89 to BYU. The following night, Stanford rebounded for a 94-78 victory over BYU. The formal dedication game was March 1, 1969, as Stanford dropped a 75-66 decision to USC.

