The Department of Graduate Medical Education at Stanford has recognized two Pediatrics fellowship coordinators as winners of the 2015-2016 Outstanding Program Coordinators Award.

The employees recognized for their outstanding effort are Megan Christofferson, Pediatric Gastroenterology, and Susan Freeman, Allergy/Immunology, Pediatric Rheumatology

“I am humbled and honored to be recognized by my program, the GME office and my colleagues,” Freeman said.

Christofferson echoed those sentiments, noting “I feel blessed to have the full support of my program director, John Kerner, my associate program director, KT Park, and the fabulous fellows I work with.”
